Friday Food:

The Friday evening restaurant of choice is usually a spirited debate with the plethora of great restaurants to try. This week a first time visit to DoughBar Pizza Pasta in Punta Gorda, located at 520 King Street, was the winner. Seating is plentiful with regular tables and the booth, chair combination tables filling the restaurant. The bruchetta appetizer was amazing. Quickly followed up by a specialty pizza that was fittingly named Grandma featuring a thin crust, with plum tomatoes, garlic and basil. The restaurant was well staffed with both the server and manager making sure everything was perfect. What's your favorite Friday night dinner go to or new restaurant discovery?
